“ I have many memories of my granny, some great some not so great. Just like in an family over the years there are ups and downs. My favorite memories of her are revolved around food. How every time we would go visit her she would always have her cinnamon raisen bread and sugar cookies. Both recipes I wish I had. My most precious memory happened when I would spend time with her over summer vacation when I was little. She had a copy of cinderella on an old record. Every evening she would sit with me and play that record while we followed along in the book. I always loved it. Every now and then she would let me continually replay the record over and over. That time always made me feel so special. You will be missed Granny.
